

Date - 1 July 2024 - 2 August 2024

The burndown chart for our fourth and final sprint, running from July 15 to August 2, 2024, shows the impact of carrying over story points from Sprint 3, likely due to midterm exams. Initially, the team started with 11 story points due to these carryover tasks. No progress was made in the first week, likely due to planning activities and ongoing exam commitments. A significant drop in story points occurred mid-July, indicating a concentrated effort to catch up once exams were over. Near the end of the sprint, the team worked harder and became more productive, as reflected in the substantial progress made. This demonstrates our ability to adapt and increase productivity when more time and resources became available, ultimately showing our commitment and dedication to completing the sprint goals.
